A Rare Double-Tiered Satinwood Sutherland Table

Constructed from satinwood, with rosewood crossbanding, the table on double-column end supports with outswept feet, joined by a turned stretcher, having two graduated tiers consisting of drop leaves with canted corners.

English, circa 1870

Distinguished by two hinged flaps supported by gated legs and a stable trestle, the Sutherland table exhibits a gracefully slender central plank atop with elongated flaps that descend nearly to the floor.

The Sutherland table was purportedly crafted in 1822 for Harriet, the Duchess of Sutherland (1806-1861), a close associate of Queen Victoria. Its ingenious design allows for several distinct
