A Superb Library Table of the Regency Period

Constructed in amboyna, with cut brass inlay work, and bronze feet; of rectangular panelled end support form, braced by pairs of carved spandrels, rising from porcelain castor shod swept talon feet, having a conjoining ring turned stretcher: the gadroon based apron houses pairs of lockable drawers on either side, with circular turned wood handles, and the platform, of radiused rectangular form with a running guard band of cut brass of geometric pattern, inset onto a rosewood ground. Circa 1820
