A Fine Corner Cabinet in the Neo-Classical Revival Taste
Firmly Attributed to Maples & Co

Constructed using the very finest timbers and workmanship, the lustrous satinwood counterpointed by inlays in specimen woods including sycamore and harewood; rising from turned and knopped legs, the single lockable blind door quarter veneered about a central roundel depicting with great depth and clarity a meeting between Cupid and Euterpe, the goddess of music in a Grecian landscape, and flanked by foliate full length inlays; a single lockable drawer in the decorated apron, having quadrant mouldings; the top conformingly inlaid.

Circa 1890
