A Fine set of Twelve George IV Dining Chairs
Attributed to Gillows of London & Lancaster

Constructed from flamed Cuban mahogany, with hand-carved details; supported on tapering, turned and reeded front legs headed by anthemion-carved corners lappets with burgundy leather studded stuffover seats, the back with a curved and generous top rail and acanthus-carved uprights.
English, circa 1825

A variation of the Gillows designs dated 1823 for Glasserton House in Galloway, the distinctive anthemion carved corners also appear on a furniture made for the Royal Albert Hospital in Lancaster.
